

7th December 2009

Dear Parent,

There is a match arranged between the England Legends and Ireland Legends on Friday 26th February at Harlequin Rugby club. The match is organised to raise money for Stuart Managan, a 24 year old who suffered a serious spinal injury leaving him totally dependant on care whilst playing for Hammersmith Rugby Club. Unfortunately Stuart passed away earlier this year but the fund raising match is still going ahead with the proceeds going towards helping other young people with spinal injuries from rugby.

Players who have committed so far include Jason Leonard, Neil Black, Phil Vickery, Mike Catt and Keith Wood. The tickets are priced at £10 for adults and £5 for juveniles.

The London Oratory School has been invited to provide two teams to play a short game at half-time and meet the players after the game. In order to determine which group of boys are selected for this great honour I have decided to use ticket sales as the criteria for selection. The U12, U13, U14 and U15 teams will be asked to sell tickets for the game and the team selling the most will provide the players for the half-time match. Sky TV are televising the game and I am sure it will be a memorable occasion for the successful Oratory side.

Can you please return the slip below indicating how many tickets you would like your son to take. I will give out tickets and all money from sales should be returned to me.

Yours Sincerely,

G K Moran
Director of Sport and Physical Education
